gif, .mp4, .mov, .mp3, .ogg, or .webm, you can select the duration for the selected clips. After that, you can click on 'Get YouTube Video' button to copy the embedded YouTube video url or copy the URL. By this way, you can paste the URL into a website, post the video to your own blog, website, etc. I'm currently using Wistia.com to host my video clips. It's very easy to add Wistia into Coub, just copy the embed codes and add it into your page. However, if you have your own website, then you can link Coub to your website, instead of the Wistia. You can also select a subtitle file, subtitle tracks, background music and make it a screencast, and can see the result immediately after you submitted the form. The benefits are: [] Easy to use, . Easy to share, . Very easy to get a unique video clip, . Less time consuming, . It's very easy to change the looks. Save videos for later, . Record videos automatically, . Record video continuously, . Search by title, keyword, etc., . Record videos from webcam or other sources, . Show thumbnail of the video clip, . You can show only certain part of the video, . Let's go to the demo. [How to use Coub demo? The demo page is loaded on my computer. To use Coub, first enter the URL of Coub, then select the videos. You can preview the video immediately after you select videos. By this way, you can see how the video looks like before you uploaded it. Here, my demo is the video clip, 'The sun on the beach' which has been trimmed and selected, and is in the format .mov. 'Journey to remote island' is a 2nd clip which has been trimmed and also selected. You can see these two clips in the table below.] [1. Coub demo] [2. video] [3. new video] [4 82157476af
